

Uganda: Comic Relief Celebrities Kick Start Net Distribution

Five celebrities from this year's Comic Relief Kilimanjaro Climb - Ben Shephard, Chris Moyles, Fearne Cotton, Gary Barlow and Kimberley Walsh - visited Uganda to lend their direct support to the start of a mass mosquito net distribution campaign to help save the lives of thousands of children in Western Uganda.

See the highlights: Comic Relief's The Net Result

Resistance to Malaria Drugs Spreading

Resistance to artemisinin derivative drugs is growing in Southeast Asia, despite more investment in malaria control.

$100 Million to Fight Malaria

Malaria Consortium is to lead the net distribution and operations research for a five year USAID project across Africa.

Sonia Sultuane - Sculptor and Activist

Mozambican poet and sculptor, who nearly lost her brother to the disease, hopes to help fight malaria through her art.

Malaria Consortium Annual Lecture

Professor Myles Wickstead considers whether the MDGs should be a matter of rights or simply the right thing to do.

Christmas Appeal 2009

Help us to provide nets to the children of Southern Sudan. Even a small amount can make a big difference!

Other News...

- World Malaria Report 2009
- New advocacy case studies published
- United Nations Resolution on Malaria
- Photographer wins award for Malaria photos

Please add newsletter@malariaconsortium.org to your address list to ensure you receive this email. If you would like a friend to receive this newsletter, email newsletter@malariaconsortium.org with their email address in the subject line.

If you wish to unsubscribe, please email newsletter@malariaconsortium.org with 'remove' in the subject line.

Photography Accreditations:

From left to right. Top row: Comic Relief Middle row: Adam Nadal, Benoist Carpentier, Pedro Sá da Bandeira Bottom row: Malaria Consortium UK, Kevin Coles

www.malariaconsortium.org